

Teachers-to-Teachers

Two vital videos on racism and teaching

Learning in the Tension

Recent events have brought issues surrounding racism to the forefront in our community, churches, and schools. There is a need for Lutheran educators to create a space for students, teachers, and parents to discuss the problems and answers to racism. LEA invites you to join John Nunes, Rehema Kavugha, Kevin Williams, and Betsy Graham in a two-part video series as they engage in an honest and fruitful discussion.

I. The Big Picture

Christians recognize racism as sin; however, we often lack comprehension of the scope of the problem. This lack of understanding does not excuse us from facing the issue in our churches, schools, and classrooms. What do we need to know about racism and how it impacts learning and ministry?

II. The Important Details

The best outcome of an honest discussion is a practical one that answers the question, "How do we make a difference?" In this discussion, participants look for concrete ideas for impacting racism in our faith communities.

LEARNING IN THE TENSION
PART 2

THE IMPORTANT DETAILS

#teacherstoteachers

Discussion Questions & Links to Additional Resources